

MAGGIE YU, MD

Functional and Holistic MD

BIO

Maggie Yu MD is a functional and holistic medicine MD in practice for 23+ years.

She worked as a conventional family medicine physician for 10 years before coming down with worsening symptoms of autoimmune disease.

To find answers, she undertook additional training and over the course of the next 13 years developed a protocol and an online program to help people turn around their autoimmune disease naturally.

She lectures and teaches on holistic health and is an expert on hormones, food sensitivities, gut health, and optimizing immune function.

INTERVIEW GUIDELINES

- Interviews are maximum 30 minutes.
- Any interview is to provide education around a topic, but the main point of an interview is for the audience to be introduced to the services and products of the interviewer and interviewee. Dr. Maggie will be asking you questions and highlighting things about your service that her audience would be interested in.
- We will be asking you for social media, sign up links, and the raw video or audio file and once published locations to share with our 80K audience.
- To help highlight our services, we will forward some sample questions to allow an opportunity for Dr. Yu to educate your audience on our unique program and products.
